Assessment Area 1: Knowledge, Instruction & Assessment

Goals Assessed

Goal 1.1 Candidates demonstrate an understanding of how students develop and learn with respect to individual, contextual and cultural differences, and an ability to take account of these differences in their practice (knowledge of learning and learners).

Goal 1.2 Candidates demonstrate an ability to be effective communicators both orally and in writing.

Goal 2.1 Candidates demonstrate an understanding of the subjects they teach (content knowledge).

Goal 2.2 Candidates demonstrate ability to teach their subject areas (pedagogical knowledge) to students

Goal 3.1 Candidates demonstrate an ability to create, enrich, maintain and alter instructional settings to capture and sustain the interest of their students and to make the most effective use of time.

Goal 3.2 Candidates demonstrate an ability to assess the progress of students through multiple methods, adjust practice to meet students' assessed needs and clearly explain student performance to parents, appropriate school personnel and administrators.

Explanation of Advanced Critical Tasks and Assessment of Knowledge, Instruction & Assessment

Candidates are expected to develop foundational knowledge about language and literacy learning, development of readers and writers, and literacy theory. They are expected to be knowledgeable about instructional and assessment methods in the field of literacy, about literacy materials including children's literature, and current trends in the field.

To assess candidate knowledge, instruction and assessment, Advanced Critical Tasks are identified in courses in the major. Advanced Critical Tasks is a general term for demonstrations of candidate's knowledge of children, content, pedagogy and assessment in the major (reading education). Advanced Critical Tasks are also demonstrations of candidate's ability to plan effective learning environments and to use effective communication skills. Advanced Critical Tasks vary from course to course in format (e.g., lesson plans, curriculum units or projects) but they all function to demonstrate candidate knowledge about teaching and learning (including use of technology). Note: Not every program goal is met in every assignment but instead, over all of the assignments.

Advanced Critical Tasks are assessed with the Advanced Critical Tasks Rubric (see attached).

Advanced Critical Task: Theory-Practice Study	Advanced Critical Task: Deep & Wide: Genre Study	Advanced Critical Task: Writing Process Portfolio	Advanced Critical Task: Case Analysis	Advanced Critical Task: Instructional Strategies Set	Advanced Critical Task: Creative Literacy Multimedia Project
TL 530 Foundations of Reading Instruction	TL 590 Children's Literature in the Elementary School Classroom	TL 590 Writing in the Elementary School Classroom	TL 534 Basic Reading Diagnosis	TL 524 Reading in the Content Area	TL 536 Teaching & Supervision of Language Arts

When Administered

In each of the courses on the grid (see above), candidate performance is assessed. Typically, the assessment is completed at the end of each course, though some assessments may occur at other times throughout the course.

Assessment Tool 1: Advanced Critical Task Rubric

See attached.

Assessment Area 2: Effect on Student Learning

Goals Assessed

Goal 1.1 Candidates demonstrate an understanding of how students develop and learn with respect to individual, contextual and cultural differences, and an ability to take account of these differences in their practice.

Goal 1.2 Candidates demonstrate an ability to be effective communicators both orally and in writing.

Goal 2.1 Candidates demonstrate an understanding of the subjects they teach (content knowledge).

Goal 2.2 Candidates demonstrate ability to teach their subject areas (pedagogical knowledge) to students

Goal 3.1 Candidates demonstrate an ability to create, enrich, maintain and alter instructional settings to capture and sustain the interest of their students and to make the most effective use of time.

Goal 3.2 Candidates demonstrate an ability to assess the progress of students through multiple methods, adjust practice to meet students' assessed needs and clearly explain student performance to parents, appropriate school personnel and administrators.

Goal 5.1 Candidates demonstrate ability to collaborate with others as members of learning communities who can contribute to the effectiveness of the school.

TL 583 Reading Clinic
Case Study Report	Practicum/Internship Report

Explanation of Practicum and Assessing Performance in Working with Struggling Readers

Candidates are expected to be proficient in working with struggling readers and promoting their literacy development. The practicum experience, TL 583 Reading Clinic (2 credits) is designed to develop candidate proficiency. The Reading Clinic takes the form of a 4 week Summer Reading Program (Clinic) for struggling readers, grades 2-7. In the practicum experience candidates apply their knowledge about learning, child development, reading diagnosis and remediation, the instructional setting, instructional practice, and assessment. They demonstrate their dispositions as well as their ability to work with other professionals and families. Candidate performance is assessed with a Practicum/Internship Report and the Case Study Report Rubric.

When Assessments are Administered

The Practicum/Internship Report is completed at least once during TL 583 Reading Practicum.

The Case Study Report is assessed at the end of TL 534/583 Basic Reading Diagnosis Remediation/Reading Clinic.

Assessments (see attached)

Assessment Area 3: Knowledge of Research

Goals Assessed

Goal 4.1 Candidates research and reflect systematically about their practice and so deepen their knowledge and adapt and strengthen their practice.

Goal 1.2 Candidates demonstrate an ability to be effective communicators both orally and in writing.

TL 530 Foundations of Reading Instruction	TL 569 Action Research	TL 995 or 997
Literature Review	Report on Action Research	Scholarly Project or Independent Study

Explanation of Knowledge of Research

Candidates are expected to be knowledgeable about research in the field of literacy education and to be able to systematically study their own practices. In TL 530 Foundations of Reading Instruction candidates learn to conduct systematic study of the literature in the field of literacy. The course TL 569 Action Research requires candidates to learn to study their own practice. All candidates complete a scholarly project (TL 995) or an independent study (TL 997) as a means to apply and demonstrate skills associated with educational research.

- TL 995: The scholarly project demonstrates critical analysis and application of information and experiences gained throughout the program of study. The project allows students to demonstrate scholarly skills in an integrated manner that is directly related to their roles as teachers, program evaluators, and action researchers. The scholarly project must be approved by the student's advisor.
- TL 997: The independent study is designed to enable the student to investigate a topic related to the major field of study. The study analyzes and discusses information and ideas already in the literature of the field and is designed to ensure that a student can investigate a topic, and then organize and write a scholarly paper on the investigation. The form of the independent study is typically a traditional research paper. The independent study topic must be approved by the student's advisor.

When Administered

The rubric is applied to during the relevant course, but generally assesses students at the beginning, middle, and end of their program of study.

Advanced Critical Task Rubric (Masters Programs)

Goals	Does Not Meet Expectations (1)	Meets Expectations (2)	Exceeds Expectations (3)	Score
Goal 1.1 Candidates demonstrate an understanding of how students develop and learn with respect to individual, contextual and cultural differences, and an ability to take account of these differences in their practice.	Knowledge of development and other theory to support effective design of instruction and assessment for all students is not demonstrated or is cursory. It is not apparent that differences among learners are valued.	Instruction and assessment are designed with consideration of cognitive, social, cultural (including language), physical and individual traits. Accommodations are provided and attend to needs of the learners.	It is evident that learner differences are regarded as assets to the learning community; connections between sociocultural, developmental and related theory, instructional practice and understanding of students are developed routinely to adjust for learner needs.
Goal 1.2 Candidates demonstrate an ability to be effective communicators both orally and in writing.	Some or all of following are evident: Expression interferes with meaning, lacks effective organization, appearance is poor, has errors in mechanics, style or usage. Use of APA is ineffective.	Expression is effective, cohesive with a supportive organization, has an acceptable appearance, has minimal errors in mechanics, usage, and style. Effective use of APA.	Expression is highly effective and is extremely well organized with a professional appearance throughout, is error free with a linguistically mature style of writing. Accurate use of APA.
Goal 2.1 Candidates demonstrate an understanding of the subjects they teach (content knowledge).	Content is erroneous or incomplete; learning situation is content poor. Content does not account for diverse student needs.	Content knowledge is accurate; content needs of students are addressed; ample content is evident in the learning situation; content accounts for diverse student needs.	Content knowledge is fluid; instruction supports making connections between content and experience; learning situation is content rich; strategically incorporates content for diverse students.
Goal 2.2 Candidates demonstrate ability to teach their subject areas (pedagogical knowledge) to students	Curricular and instructional approaches are conventional or not reflective of course content; learner role tends to be passive or opportunity to think or problem solve is limited; attention to student diversity is not apparent in choice of instructional practices or materials.	Curricular and instructional approaches are suited to the subject area, actively engage diverse learners to develop critical/strategic thinking and to solve problems. Instructional practices are varied, draw upon technology when appropriate, and are adapted to diverse learners.	Curricular and instructional approaches support conceptual connections across disciplines and create an environment where thinking and problem solving are habits; learners are highly engaged; instruction capitalizes on diversity. Technology use is seamless and integral.
Goal 3.1 Candidates demonstrate an ability to create, enrich, maintain and alter instructional settings to capture and sustain the interest of their students and to make the most effective use of time.	Building a community of learners is unlikely under the conditions provided; expectations are unclear or not tailored to needs of learners.	Students have choice and input in the classroom environment; motivation and strategies support meeting behavior and/or learning standards.	Classroom processes are democratic in nature; classroom experiences are meaningful and consequential; students can successfully self-monitor due to the classroom support system.
Goal 3.2 Candidates demonstrate an ability to assess the progress of students through multiple methods, adjust practice to meet students' assessed needs and clearly explain student performance to parents, appropriate school personnel and administrators.	Assessment choices and practices provide incomplete information about the student in the learning situation; or, assessment results are not communicated in a way that is useful to students.	Assessment practices uncover what learners can do; students are engaged in self assessment; teacher assessment is used to adjust instruction; feedback to students is supportive and instructive.	Assessment practices motivate students to understand their strengths and areas for growth; it is differentiated for diverse learners; students are guided to use assessment information to set learning goals.

Department of Teaching & Learning Graduate Programs
Assessment of Student Learning: Rubric III (rev. 12/14/06—SjB)

The Research Rubric is designed to assess the capstone course work, TL 995 and 997, in the masters programs in the Department of Teaching & Learning relative to program goals which are based on the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards and which we have aligned with the Conceptual Framework of the department and UND's Teacher Education Program.

Conceptual Framework Excerpt

Teacher As Articulate Visionary: Teachers can envision alternative solutions to the challenges posed in schools, embrace diversity and support pluralistic views.

Program Goals Based on NBPT Standards

Candidates demonstrate an ability to be effective communicators both orally and in writing.

Candidates research and reflect systematically about their practice and so deepen their knowledge and adapt and strengthen their practice.

T&L 995 Scholarly Project

The scholarly project demonstrates critical analysis and application of information and experiences gained throughout the program of study. The project allows students to demonstrate scholarly skills in an integrated manner that is directly related to their roles as teachers, program evaluators, and action researchers. The scholarly project must be approved by the student's advisor.

T&L 997 Independent Study

The independent study is designed to enable the student to investigate a topic related to the major field of study. The study analyzes and discusses information and ideas already in the literature of the field and is designed to ensure that a student can investigate a topic, and then organize and write a scholarly paper on the investigation. The form of the independent study is typically a traditional research paper. The independent study topic must be approved by the student's advisor.
